DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase “terminal terminals” appears to have a typographical error. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US patent application publication 2002/0071,540 (Dworkin).

- As for claims 1, 4-6: Dworkin teaches a computer implemented system and corresponding method connected to a network server (figure 2) for managing a first service of distributing contents in real-time according to a reservation made in advance by a first terminal, and, to a plurality of participant terminals 106, 108 (0015, 0019, 0027) for requesting the use of first service and the use of a second service of providing a chat space (0002-0008, 0015-0019), comprising the means/steps for:
 - acquiring means configured to acquire reservation information, sent by the first terminal, to the information processing apparatus from a reservation database in order to provide the first service to the plurality of participant terminals (0015, 0025), the plurality of participant terminals receiving a distribution notice in accordance with the participants addresses of the reservation (0027).

generating means configured to generate the chat space corresponding to the reservation at scheduled distribution start time designated by the reservation (0019-0021, 0025-0028), authentication means for authenticating the second terminal by the use of authenticating data used by the server to authenticate the participant terminals (0018, 0024), providing means for providing the chat space and the first service to the participant terminals designated to be distributed by the first terminal (0024, 0025).

Although Dworkin teaches generating the chat space at scheduled time (0026), Dworkin fails to clearly teach that the chat space is generated at predetermined time “prior” to a distribution start time. However since the chat space must be available at scheduled time for customer satisfaction, it would have been obvious to one of skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to implement generating the chat space at predetermined time “prior” to a distribution start time. Motivation of the implementation is for avoiding schedule confliction and overlapping.

Per Dworkin, designated participants are notified and connected to scheduled conferences at start time (0027). Shared authentication (chat room password, log-in access are shared authentication service provided by the ASP) are provided for protecting access to the conference room by others and allowing only authorized user to enter a reserved conference (0018, 0026, 0028). While teach the notification, Dworkin fails to clearly teach sending the notification with authentication data to the participant terminals. However official notice is taken that it would have been obvious to one of skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to implement sending the notification with authentication data to the participant terminals for informing the upcoming reserved conference.

- As for claims 2, 3: The first service is a service for distributing contents sent according to a reservation made in advance, to the terminal in real-time (0004, 0008, 0016-0018), and the second service is a service for providing a chat space corresponding to the reservation for the terminal (0002-0008, 0015-0019).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

REMARKS:

In response to applicant's argument that the reference fails to teach the shared authentication, per Dworkin, all participants are notified and connected to scheduled conference at start time (0027), and all participants are provided log-in access and authenticated by the host ASP (i.e., sharing the same authentication service, 0018, 0027-0028). Participants further provided a video chat room password (i.e., a shared password for all participants) for access to the chat room (0026)

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US 6,363,352 (Dailey et al) Dailey et al teach notifying and activating a conference space near scheduled time (5:28-43).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
